

Morning Routine for Educators

Before you check your phone, notice: did you reach for it first, or for sunlight, tea, quiet?

What did you actually reach for this morning?

Rung 1 of 10
Wake

Morning Routine for Educators

Step outside for a moment, no timer. Notice clouds, birds, air, light.

What did you notice?

Rung 2 of 10
Nature

Morning Routine for Educators

Notice your natural arousal level.
Choose music, podcast, or silence that matches what you actually need today.

What did you choose, and how did it feel?

Rung 3 of 10
The Drive

Morning Routine for Educators

Notice the energy in the room. Do you borrow it, or protect your own morning first?

What did you choose to do today?

Rung 4 of 10
The Staffroom

Morning Routine for Educators

Rung 5 of 10
Meeting the First Child

Use the isoprinciple. Eg. shift your own energy up or down to meet where they are.

Which child did you meet first this morning?

What part of your arousal, energy, and/or mood did you shift?

Morning
for Edu

Rung 6 of 10
Plan your Pockets

Check your pockets: something to fidget, something to blow, something to hide and find.

What did you pack today?

What was the intention of the resources that you packed?

Rung 6 of 10

Plan your Pockets

Morning Routine for Educators

Rung 7 of 10
Dysregulated Child

Check, assess, lead, monitor — live.
No rushing them, no fixing, just steady presence.

What did you notice in their body?

What did you notice in your body?

Morning Routine for Educators

Settle the parent first. Ask something real: how many birds, how many clouds, how many coloured cars.

What did you ask?

What did you notice, together?

Rung 8 of 10
Parent at the Door

Morning Routine for Educators

Let them set up their own start. Eg.
push the trolley, lift the basket, hopscotch in.

What job did they choose today?

Rung 9 of 10
Child's Entry Ritual

Morning Routine for Educators

Look around: how many are shut down, hypervigilant, or hyperaroused right now?

Your count, and who needs you first?

Rung 10 of 10
Room Scan